

Just when things were getting good, The Vampire Diaries is taking a one-week Thanksgiving hiatus, but when it returns, get ready for a dance with the Devil - as in the actual Devil, Cade. While Alaric & Caroline scramble to find their twins, Stefan takes matters in his own hands and hunts down Damon & Sybil. However, he doesn't find exactly what he's looking for and is ultimately faced with a life-altering decision. The synopsis doesn't divulge much else, but it's likely that the decision in question will have something to do with his long-awaited meeting with Cade, which has been teased multiple times throughout the early portion of this final season.
