

As Gareth Edwards' Rogue One: A Star Wars Story continues to bust blocks, a batch of new TV spots have been released that highlight some of the praise the movie has received from critics. Interestingly enough, they actually feature a few shots that didn't wind up being used in the finished film. We also have an update on Rogue One's box office performance. According to Deadline, the Star Wars prequel took in $15.5M yesterday, raising its running domestic total to $205.7M. Apparently this gives Rogue One the fifth-best Tuesday haul of all time, which is pretty impressive. SPOILERS: The 5 Biggest Moments From The ROGUE ONE Trailers That Weren't In The Movie Have you seen Rogue One: A Star Wars Story yet? If so, do you plan to again? Sound off below, and you can check out my review of the movie here if you're still on the fence.
