

While it wasn't exactly a secret, we've finally received more confirmation that Henry Cavill's Superman will indeed make an appearance in Zack Snyder's Justice League this fall. Now, as for how big of an appearance, that's yet-to-be-seen. Yahoo! Movies have debuted six first look images at DC Collectibles' upcoming line of premium, screen-accurate 12-inch statues, which are based on the upcoming movie lineup. That lineup features Cavill as the Man of Steel, Ben Affleck as Batman, Gal Gadot as Wonder Woman, Jason Momoa as Aquaman, Ezra Miller as The Flash, and Ray Fisher as Cyborg. The meticulously detailed statues offer amazing new looks at each individual costume and seemingly reveal that Superman will wear his red-and-blue suit at some point during the movie. It's also been heavily rumored that he'll possibly also sport a black-and-silver costume as well, but since we're still a long ways away from November, it'll probably be a few more months before we catch any sort of official look at that

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/justice_league/new-screen-accurate-justice-league-collectible-statues-offer-new-a149027