

Underworld: Awakening brings a stunning new dimension to the epic battle between Vampires and Lycans, as the first film in the franchise to shoot in 3D. Kate Beckinsale, star of the first two films, returns in her lead role as the vampire warriorress Selene, who escapes imprisonment to find herself in a world where humans have discovered the existence of both Vampire and Lycan clans, and are conducting an all-out war to eradicate both immortal species. The poster was released as part of a viral campaign in conjunction with the Lunar eclipse that occurred over the weekend. Of course since that's been and gone I'm not sure how much life will be in Selene should you choose to go awaken here at the movie's official Facebook page, but it's a pretty cool poster nonetheless. Underworld Awakening hits 3D, 2D and IMAX 3D theaters on January 20. By TwitterButtons.com
