

With the likes of the Clash Of The Titans movies and Immortals making big bucks, it was only a matter of time before a movie studio saw the sense in adapting the similarly themed, but far more adult orientated, God Of War games for the big screen. It turns out that studio was Universal, who has tapped Patrick Melton and Marcus Dunstan - writers of Pacific Rim and all six SAW movies - to rewrite a script (David Self, who is exec producing, wrote the initial draft) for an adaptation of the Sony Computer Entertainment video game. Charles Roven and Alex Gartner are producing via Atlas Entertainment. So who would be your pick to play Kratos then?

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrrants/news/?a=63447>