

The folks over at Marvel.com have labeled two Tv spots for Fox's Matthew Vaughn-directed X-Men: First Class prequel, as "Exclusives," despite one already being released. And the other, provided below, lacks much new footage, other than new dialogue & a HQ snippet of 'Emma Frost' in action, which more of can be seen here in an earlier low-quality post today. Without further ado, check it out below. X-Men: First Class charts the epic beginning of the X-Men saga, and reveals a secret history of famous global events. Before mutants had revealed themselves to the world, and before Charles Xavier and Erik Lensherr took the names Professor X and Magneto, they were two young men discovering their powers for the first time. Not archenemies, they were instead at first the closest of friends, working together with other Mutants (some familiar, some new), to stop Armageddon. In the process, a grave rift between them
