

Talking to Film Critic recently, the actor went into detail about his role as Hank McCoy, aka Beast in X-Men: First Class and below are some of the most interesting excerpts. To read the interview in its entirety, simply click on the link at the bottom of the page to head on over to the site. On What He Knew About The X-Men And Beast Before Filming: I actually watched an X-Men cartoon when I was little. And while I was aware of Beast from the third X-Men movie, I definitely wasn't trying to play that character. Initially, my big concern before the audition was working on my best American accent. [Laughs] But I really started to research the character once I learned I'd gotten the part. I read as many of the comics as I could get my hands on and watched the films again. We worked from that. On Using The Comic

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=38303&t=Nicholas_Hoult_Talks_iX-Men_First_Class_Make-Up_Effects_Comic_Books_And_More