

Courtesy of Indie Wire 1. Refn's has been told by studio executives that his dream adaptation of "Wonder Woman" depends on the success of his first blockbuster, "Logan's Run" "I would love to make 'Wonder Woman.' And I also think that Christina Hendricks would be the perfect Wonder Woman, but Warner Bros haven't called yet. But I'm getting closer with 'Logan's Run.' I think someone said to me in a meeting that if I get 'Logan's Run' right, then I'll get 'Wonder Woman.'" I like this guy. He has such a desire to make Wonder Woman when other directors would take it only for the paycheck. So what does he have planned for Logan's Run? Here is excerpt from an interview with I09 How do you update a film like [Logan's Run]? Do you keep Box? I have done this, I've gone back, and I've seen the movie, I've seen the TV show and I've started
