

Lots of people think the second film in the Back to the Future trilogy is the worst one, but even if it isn't as good as the other two, it's not off by much. One of my favorite scenes in the film is of course the hoverboard chase. The scene takes place in the future, 2015. Wow, only three years from now. Remember when that felt a long ways off? That reminds me, where the hell are my auto-lacing sneakers? And where are my clothes that automatically tailor to fit my body? We were lied to! Lied to I tell you! Damn you Zemeckis! At least the future hasn't brought us those stupid hats that Elijah Wood and his doofus buddy are wearing... but then again a lot can change in three years. Oh no!

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=65424>