

The first half of FX's Legion pilot just screened at New York Comic-Con to a very positive reaction, and Noah Hawley and Marvel TV boss Jeph Loeb were on hand to make a few very interesting announcements. First, Hawley revealed that Jemaine Clement (What We Do in the Shadows, Flight of The Concorde) will be joining the likes of Dan Stevens and Aubrey Plaza on the show, though he didn't reveal which character he'd be playing. The bigger news, however, was Jeph Loeb stating that Marvel and Fox might be getting on the same page when it comes to the X-universe, and that an appearance from Charles Xavier (David Haller's father in the comics) was definitely a possibility. Does this mean we might finally see The X-Men and The Avengers in the same movie? That might be getting ahead of ourselves, but it's good to know that it's a possibility, at least. Jeph Loeb acknowledges that bridges are being made between the Fox and

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/x-men/nycc-jemaine-clement-joins-the-cast-of-legion-jeph-loeb-suggests-marvel-and-a145836>