

So yeah, that "got no guts" scene was pretty disgusting - but it wasn't all doom and gloom on tonight's midseason finale of The Walking Dead, as they actually closed out the episode on an uplifting note. Admit it, you got choked up a little when Rick hugged Daryl... didn't ya? So it looks like Rick and co. have decided to make a stand against Negan, and the promo below reveals that Ezekiel and his Kingdom will also be joining the fray. Plus, we see some walker action, Daryl beating the crap out of someone, and what appears to be some sort of spiked walker that looks more like something out of a Guillermo del Toro movie. Check out the promo below (along with that epic bromance moment), and let us know what you thought of "Hearts Still Beating" in the usual place.

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/tv/amc/the_walking_dead/old-friends-reunite-and-new-alliances-are-formed-in-this-a147462