

Producer Roy Lee sat down with Shocktilyoudrop to talk about Spike Lee's planned remake of Park Chan Wook's Oldboy, which is itself based on a Manga of the same name. It sounds as if this movie will indeed be more of a remake than another adaptation of the comic as Lee says that although there will be some changes both films will be very similar. He also says that people might find this version's ending "a bit darker" than the original. How that is even possible I don't know but I'm certainly curious as to what is in store.. "We are planning to shoot 'Old Boy' in March and that should start pre-production in late January," he said. "This is a brand new script by Mark Protosevich. It is very similar to the film, but Protosevich has added new elements that will throw off the audience who have seen the original movie

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=50386&t=iOldboyi\_Remake\_Details\_Emerge\_New\_Version\_To\_Be\_Even\_Darker\_Than\_The\_Original