

Variety report that Jessica Chastain, Olga Kurylenko, Brit Marling, Noomi Rapace and Olivia Wilde are all set to audition this weekend for a role in Horizons opposite Tom Cruise. Universal have scrapped the movie's original title-Oblivion and the sci-fi flick will now be called Horizons. The 5 ladies named above are said to be going for live auditions this Saturday but it's not a given that any of them will get the part. The story is based on the comic from Radical Publishing and focuses on Jack(Cruise), a man who lives in the clouds above Earth and heads to its surface to repair drones that essentially keep the planet safe from an alien race that has all but wiped out humanity. The movie will be directed by Tron Legacy helmer Joseph Kosinski. Thanks to Showblitz for the pic. By TwitterButtons.com

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsranst/news/?a=45203&t=Olivia_Wilde_4_Others_Up_For_Female_Lead_In_Tom_Cruises_Next_Sci-Fi_Movie_i_Horizons_i