

Adam West was honored with his very own star on the Hollywood Walk Of Fame over the weekend. West is obviously best known for playing Batman in the campy '60s TV show, but more recently he has been providing the voice for Mayor West in Family Guy. The creator of that show, Seth McFarlane, was on hand at the ceremony to say a few words, and the original Batmobile showed up too.. I love that old series, and West is hilarious as the mayor on Family Guy so this is great to see. Here is a classic scene from the show, in which Batman and Robin get hit with some laughing gas..
