

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GulfCoastAvengers/news/?a=28731&t=Original_Storyboards_From_Bryan_Singers_iX-Meni

With all the news surrounding X-Men: First Class lately, it's almost refreshing to see something pop up related to the film that started the X-Men ball rolling. Story Board artist John Coven who's most recent work was on The Green Hornet, shared some of his story board art from Bryan Singers X-Men with TOTAL FILM. He had the following to say about the boards... This is my favorite of the scenes I boarded for X-Men. It does a great job of setting up how much stronger Sabertooth is than Logan. You always want to have your hero as much the underdog as possible. And frame 17 of course uses foreground and background as well as motion to an extreme I find very pleasurable." Hawksblueyes: To see a much larger collection of Coven's work follow the link below to TOTAL FILM.