

Niagara Classics Transport is a provider that offers custom vehicles for film and television production, which were recently featured in the Total Recall remake and TV spots for The Olympic Games. During an interview with a Niagara newspaper, NCT revealed that a Robocop film crew are currently in discussions with them to provide vehicles which would double as retrieval ambulances in a pandemic scene. The president of Niagara Classics Transport, David Mole said "We're helping to recreate a catastrophe that happened in the original story." Could this catastrophe be when Clarence Boddicker gets the launchers and causes panic in Detroit City? We may possibly know more once Robocop starts shooting in early September in Toronto. In RoboCop, the year is 2029 and multinational conglomerate OmniCorp is at the center of robot technology. Their drones are winning American wars around the globe and now they want to bring this technology to the home front.
