

The good news is, it seems the movie is still going to happen - at some point. Bad news is it won't shoot in January as was planned and there has been no time frame given for a new shoot, so we could theoretically be waiting a very long time to see Bradley Cooper's Lucifer have a little falling out with God. Deadline report.. Legendary Pictures has halted plans to begin production early next year on Paradise Lost.. ..I'm told that the film isn't scrapped; rather, Legendary's Thomas Tull and Jon Jashni will continue developing it and will rework a budget that had passed the $120 million mark. The picture has crewed up for an Australia shoot and the talent and below the line is learning about the postponement right now. A reworked budget on a movie of this scale is not really unusual so there is most likely nothing to worry about. But

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsranst/news/?a=51155&t=PARADISE_LOSTs_January_Shoot_Postponed_Budget_To_Be_Reworked