

Story first reported by NyMag.com. NYMAG.com recently caught up with director Patty Jenkins at the premiere of Five in the Soho district of New York. Here's what they reported about their discussion with Jenkins: So when we ran into Jenkins at the premiere of Five at Skylight Soho on Monday, we asked her if Thor 2 was really next on her slate. "I can't say, but yes," she laughed. "I can't say anything definitive, but it's exciting to be in talks with them about it." Jenkins understands she's an unusual choice for the project — she hasn't worked with big special effects before. "I think Marvel is really ballsy to think outside the box," she said. "And I think everyone they've talked to and hired has been interesting." While the deal is still being sorted out, she's prepping for the gig, surreptitiously. When asked what she was reading, comics- and graphic-novel-wise, she

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=47170&t=Patty_Jenkins_Comments_Briefly_On_Thor_2