

At the three minute mark in the interview Peter Weller begins to share some fascinating behind-the-scenes information about the original Robocop. But it's at the eight minute mark when things get really juicy. Geoff Boucher asks Weller about the upcoming reboot and the actor doesn't hold back as he explains why the film will have a hard time duplicating the original's success. I also encourage you to skip to the eleven minute mark in the video as Peter Weller uses Denzel Washington's car scenes in Training Day as an example of bad filmmaking. Skip To The 8:00 Mark Comments About The Reboot

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=62350>