

It's a modern day fairy tale in which the long-standing peace between men and giants is threatened, as a young farmer leads an expedition into the giants' kingdom in hopes of rescuing a kidnapped princess. Director Bryan Singer is planning to begin filming Jack The Giant Killer this March in London from a script written by Mark Bomback, Darren Lemke and Christopher McQuarrie. Nicholas Hoult (X-Men: First Class) is playing the film's lead role, the peasant boy Jack who the adventure revolves around; Eleanor Tomlinson (Alice in Wonderland) is set to play a Princess and Jack's love interest. Stanley Tucci (Captain America) is set to play the film's main villain, Roderick; an adviser to the king who has plans to take over Cloister. Bill Nighy (Pirates of the Caribbean: Dead Man's Chest) will portray the leader of the giants, Fallon. The giant Fallon will have two heads, with one being Nighy and the

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/comic_news/news/?a=35292&t=PIC_Ewan_McGregor_Armored-up_for_emJack_the_Giant_Killere