

"I had a blast doing it," Ward told USA Today. "It is a big honor for me." When asked what he thought of seeing himself in the trailer and the reaction so far he added, "It's off the chain. I can't wait to see the movie with my son. Everyone wants to be a superhero, but I think that one part is probably all the public wants to see of me," he says of The Dark Knight Rises. "Batman is the focus. I am just glad I got to be a part of history." "I hadn't run back a kickoff in forever," he said of his particular scene in the highly anticipated movie from director Christopher Nolan filmed at Heinz Field in Pittsburgh. "It was a little bizarre. But I scored on the return and any time I score it's a lot of fun." STARRING: Christian Bale as Bruce Wayne/Batman Michael Caine as Alfred Gary Oldman

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=51680&t=Pittsburgh\_Steelers\_Star\_Hines\_Ward\_Discusses\_His\_Cameo\_In\_THE\_DARK\_KNIGHT\_RISES