

Well, I have to admit this surprised me! There wasn't much in it, but DC/Warner Bros' and Christopher Nolan came out on top with just over half of the votes going to The Dark Knight Rises.. Reading through the comments on the original poll it seems that although everyone is clearly looking forward to both movies, many feel that The Avengers is still something of a risk, whereas Nolan has already delivered two great movies. I personally thought that Joss Whedon's currently shooting flick would just edge it. Anyway, what do you think? Surprised? Wasn't much in it anyway. I'm sure we can all agree that both movies have the potential to go down as history making in the CBM world. By TwitterButtons.com
