

Wolverine won out in the last poll, but I have a feeling this one might be a bit closer. I certainly couldn't call it although I know who I will be voting for. Marvel Studio films have given us great interpretations of their characters and cast some excellent actors in the roles. But who stands out as the best to you? Now I realize I left out a few minor or supporting characters from the 5 movies Marvel have released so far but I wanted to keep the numbers down to a degree and really, if you actually thought one of the Warriors Three from Thor or Samuel Sterns from The Incredible Hulk was the best representation of those characters after about 4 mins of screen time I don't know what to tell ya! I may have missed out on someone important though. I'm sure you guys will let me know about
