

We all want to see our favorite comic characters done justice to. And imo more often than not they are, even if the movie around them isn't up to scratch. The X-Men have long been considered the most popular team in Marvel history and I think a lot of fine actors have done great jobs in bringing them to the screen. That's not to say there haven't been a few duds too of course. But who stands out in your mind as being the best? There are a few factors you might consider when deciding. Obviously the actors overall performance is important but was the character represented as well as it could be when taking the comics into account? Some leeway is always needed when adapting anything for the screen but who maintained the essence of the original character best to you? Now obviously I haven't covered EVERY character that has appeared in

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=44136&t=POLL_Which_iX-Meni_Character_Has_Been_Represented_Best_Onscreen