

It would make sense for Batman (Ben Affleck) to have updated his arsenal as he goes up against an army of Parademons commanded by Steppenwolf in Justice League. Even though he is a mere mortal, Batman is always prepared for a fight, and it looks like the Dark Knight will be sporting an upgraded version of his "Armored Batsuit" from Batman v Superman. New images have surfaced online, and they feature a possible first look at what could be Batman's upgraded "Armored Batsuit" for Zack Snyder's Justice League. The images showcase a bust of a battle-damaged helmet being worn by Batman/Bruce Wayne with the title "Justice League: Apokolips." There is a possibility that this is a real bust from Justice League, but it can just as easily be a high quality fan-made prop. We won't know for sure until the film premieres, or some footage containing a look at Affleck in his latest armor, but until then, let us know what you think

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/justice_league/possible-first-look-at-batmans-upgraded-armored-suit-for-justice-a147559