

We posted the trailer for this a while ago, and now Relativity Media have released a poster for The House At The End Of The Street.. A mother (Elisabeth Shue) and daughter (Lawrence) who move into a new community and find themselves next door to a house in which a psychotic young girl murdered her parents. While the locals insist the girl vanished after the brutal murders, the young newcomer befriends the surviving son (Max Theriot) discovers the sinister story is far from over. The movie is directed by Mark Tonderai (Hush) and is scheduled to hit theaters September 21st.
