

According to Deadline, Seth Rogen and Evan Goldberg will produce a new single-camera superhero comedy series for Fox. We don't have a title, but the story focuses on "an ambitious MIT graduate who gets a job working for a Steve Jobs-esque tech genius, only to learn he's also a vigilante superhero by night forcing her to become the unwitting Alfred to his Batman." The show will be written by Mike Rosolio (Lemmings, The Cold War), who will also executive produce. Rogen and Goldberg also have a new ABC series in the works, about a the elusive Illuminati society that has been the subject of numerous conspiracy theories. That'll be written by Brad Copeland (Life In Pieces). More details as we get 'em, but that sidekick show does sound like it could be fun. Let us know what you think in the usual place.
