

Despite the mostly negative reaction to Suicide Squad, Margot Robbie managed to emerge unscathed. In fact, she's arguably more popular than ever before, hence why Warner Bros. is now moving forward with Gotham City Sirens. Directed by David Ayer, the movie is expected to team the character up with Catwoman and Poison Ivy, though we may also see other members of the Birds of Prey in some form. However, it will be Harley who serves as the lead here. How her appearance will differ remains to be seen, but she'll probably get a new costume (and hopefully fewer tattoos if we're really lucky). Thanks to DC Films Universe photographer Clay Enos (via Batman-News), we have a new look at Robbie suited up as Harley in Suicide Squad. Needless to say, this will make a great wallpaper on your phone...

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/suicide\_squad/prepare-for-gotham-city-sirens-with-this-new-character-portrait-of-a147848