

In a press release today, 20th Century Fox has just announced that Mark Millar has been tapped as the studio's go-to-consultant for their Marvel comic book film properties such as Wolverine, Deadpool, The X-Men and Fantastic Four. Read the press release below.

PRESS RELEASE Marking an expanded commitment to some of its most important franchises, Twentieth Century Fox has brought on comics superstar Mark Millar to serve as a creative consultant on the studio's upcoming projects based on Marvel Comics properties. Millar wrote several celebrated Marvel books such as The Ultimates, Civil War and Wolverine: Old Man Logan, before moving on to found Millarworld (millarworld.tv), where he continues to develop existing film franchise titles Wanted and Kick-Ass, as well as newer comic properties The Secret Service, Superior, and Nemesis — the latter also in development at Fox. Millar will work with Fox on developing new avenues for its "X-Men" and "Fantastic Four"

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=67922>