

Talking to Collider about number of topics, producer Kathleen Kennedy was asked about the fourth Jurassic Park film, the 3D re-release of the first Jurassic Park and if the Tintin sequel is moving forward, to which she said that they are looking at Christmas 2014 or summer 2015 release date. Check it out below: The confirmation about Tintin sequel is not really surprising, considering that the first film already made over $220 million internationally, and it's set to be released on December 21 in US. So, would you like to see Jurassic Park 4 and Tintin sequel?
