

A bit less violence, but a lot more scheming and bizarrely funny sex in this week's episode. But more on that in my review which should be up tomorrow. For now here is an exciting promo for the third episode, entitled "What Is Dead May Never Die", the words spoken by the Greyjoys of Pyke.. Episode 13 - Preview At the Red Keep, Tyrion plots three alliances through the promise of marriage. Catelyn arrives in the Stormlands to forge an alliance of her own. But King Renly, his new wife Margaery and her brother Loras Tyrell have other plans. At Winterfell, Luwin tries to decipher Bran's dreams. Next Sunday sees the introduction of the lovely Natalie Dormer (Captain America: TFA) as Margaery Tyrell, and also Gwendoline Christie as a character that is sure to become a fan favorite, Brienne Of Tarth.

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrrants/news/?a=57602>