

Thanks for the read!!! Always open to critique! *This is a fun speculative pitch. Ideas and concepts that act as a platform. The finer details aren't really present, like they would be in a script, but they can sort of be stripped and/or created from these larger concepts. I don't get too deep into those particulars, but I do know what they are, so feel free to ask me about them if need be. Yes, it's one of those. The old fan fiction, re-imaginings. Have you ever had a fantasy about re-imagined versions of your favorite characters or universes? Yes, you have. Don't lie to yourself, you know it to be true. Search your feelings. This is what I do in my head when I can't help but visualize the number of different stories, adventures and plotlines characters can become involved in. I've recently been thinking about the DCEU and how it all began. My re-imagining begins with Superman. It's important that he is

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/superman/re-imagining-the-dceu-part-one-superman-the-man-of-tomorrow-a148870>