

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/bleedthefreak/news/?a=27821&t=Reginald_Hudlin_On_The_iBlack_Pantheri_Movie_And_TV_Show

The former BET President of Entertainment and comic writer Reginald Hudlin talked to NEWSARAMA about the past and future of a Black Panther adaption: On Why Marvel Knights Animation: Black Panther Never Aired: "By the time it went into production, I had left (BET) and wound up producing the project. When the show was completed, the network had changed direction and gone in a much different direction programming-wise, going for an older, more female audience," said Hudlin on why the Black Panther animation series never aired. On Why A Black Panther Movie Starring Wesley Snipes Never Got Off The Ground: "I've danced with it several times through the years. After I did my first film, House Party, and I had a deal with Sony Pictures. We had talked about doing it. When I had a deal with Tri-Star, the rights (to the Panther film) were at Columbia." "Either way, it never happened. And then the rights