

Despite the occasional rumor here and there, there's still never been an official announcement regarding a live-action ThunderCats movie. As far as we know Warner Bros. have the rights, but whether they ever do anything with them remains to be seen. At any rate, if and when it happens, they won't have to look too hard for someone to play Cheetara. We Got This Covered caught up with Milla Jovovich to chat about Resident Evil: The Final Chapter, but they also slipped in the old "if you could play any superhero" question, and the stunning actress immediately went with the kick-ass female member of The ThunderCats. You'd think that with movies based on everything from board games to emojis in the works that they'd have to get to ThunderCats eventually, but that remains to be seen. Perhaps stars showing interest like this will finally get something moving? Tell us, would you like to see Jovovich play Cheetara? Sound off below.

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/thundercats/resident-evil-actress-milla-jovovich-says-she-wants-to-play-cheetara-a148022>