

Recent years have seen Aquaman become a bit of a joke with some fans. While he's always had a dedicated following, the majority have always favored Marvel's undersea King of Atlantis, Namor the Sub-Mariner. Well, if Geoff Johns and Jim Lee have their way, it looks like the DC superhero will soon be comics' #1 water dwelling ass kicker! Unveiling his new, more youthful look on the cover to Justice League #4, the relaunched universe will see the debut of a take on the character who seemingly has even Batman, Green Lantern and Superman at his mercy! I asked you guys what you thought of this new look, and here are the results in full...
