

When we caught a glimpse of Jeremy Renner in THOR, it was pretty difficult to make out what he was wearing, although it most definitely wasn't any sort of superhero costume. When the first promotional pictures appeared of The Avengers assembled recently, they made it clear that the look Marvel Studios were going for was one inspired by the hit series from Mark Millar and Bryan Hitch, The Ultimates. Of course, that's a comic book which already divides fans, so it was met with something of a mixed reaction. Today however, we got our first live action glimpse of Renner suited up as Hawkeye (the full gallery of images can be found by clicking HERE) and his suit was finally revealed in full. While I love the classic purple look he sports in the comic books, I personally don't think they could have gone for anything better, but what did you

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=45807&t=RESULTS_What_Do_You_Think_Of_Hawkeyes_New_Look_In_The_Avengers