

Hugh Jackman seems pretty adamant that Logan will be his last outing as Wolverine but with Ryan Reynolds pushing for a crossover with Deadpool and fans making it clear that they want it to happen, there's at least a slim chance the actor will eventually reconsider and don the claws one more time. Time will tell, but this new fan-made trailer offers up an idea of what could be in store for us. As you can see, it pits the heroes against X-Men villains like Mister Sinister, Psylocke, and the Juggernaut. It takes something of a retro approach to promoting this possible film, and it's a style which works surprisingly well. However, the highlight arguably comes with the casting of Mads Mikkelsen as Mister Sinister. Sure, he's shown up in the MCU, but that doesn't mean he couldn't play another villain! Thanks to We Got This Covered for the video. Would you like to see this movie become a reality?

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/deadpool/retro-fan-made-trailer-for-deadpool-and-wolverine-movie-pits-them-a148545>