

Earlier this month, the Japanese trailer for Marvel's The Avengers confirmed that Gwyneth Paltrow's Pepper Potts would play some sort of role in Joss Whedon's superhero ensemble. Here's what the actress had to say about what has been going on with Pepper since we last saw her in Iron Man 2. "At the end of 'Iron Man 2,' Pepper and Tony had a real kiss, which was great because they had been building it up for two films. So in 'The Avengers,' the idea is that they're heading somewhere, but it hasn't, shall we say, consummated yet." However, it was Robert Downey Jr. (Tony Stark/Iron Man) who convinced Marvel Studios to bring back Pepper for The Avengers as he sees her as a vital part of the progression of his character. "When we were in the first of several iterations of the storyline, the only thing I was sure about was that

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=57222>