

During yesterday's star-studded press conference for Marvel's The Avengers movie, two of the anticipated film's stars, Robert Downey Jr. and Mark Ruffalo, let slip that one last scene was to be filmed that very night. And continuing promotional rounds with Access Hollywood, the two actors jocularly discussed the scene, despite it being debunked by director Joss Whedon and producer Kevin Feige. Watch the video below, with more below! In a separate interview with THR, Ruffalo said, "Yeah, yeah — we're shooting a scene tonight. I don't know where it's going to go. I really don't. We don't even really know what it is yet, but we're shooting a scene tonight." Pointing to the closet of his hotel room, he said, "All I know is that my costume is in there, we're putting on make-up, [and they're saying] 'show up here and we're going to tell you what we're going to do.'"

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=57921>