In an interview with USA Today, The Walking Dead creator Robert Kirkman hinted at two characters from the comic with potential to make their way on to the silver screen: "Frank (Darabont) has already hinted at the fact we'll be seeing Michonne as early as Season 2. The Governor is probably a little ways off from Season 2 — maybe Season 3 or beyond," said Kirkman. Kirkman also wanted to find a way to bring Daryl Dixon, a character only featured in the TV series, into the comics continuity. Kirkman also explained that since the First Season of the show is based off the early issues in the comic series, we have yet to see the true side of Rick Grimes. Kirkman explained the trouble he had with holding back the crazy side of Rick: "I like to call the one in the comic book 'Crazy Rick' because he will do anything he
