

The Walking Dead has only two episodes left until it takes its mid season hiatus. The big story line that needs to be wrapped up is finding Sophia. While talking with Zap2It Robert Kirkman teased we might find out what happened to poor little Sophia in the last episode before the hiatus, episode seven by saying, "[I]t is a bigger episode and there are some loose ends tied up, but I wouldn't want to say what just yet. But I will say to keep an eye out for that episode, it's gonna be huge!". Kirkman also touched on the possibility of new characters being introduced to the series. If new characters are introduced it would likely be when the show returns from hiatus on February 12 of next year. Said Kirkman, "There's definitely a slew of new characters that are going to be introduced after the hiatus. I wouldn't want to say

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=49826&t=Robert_Kirkman_Talks_Season_Three_Tying_Up_Loose_Ends_And_Adding_Fan_Favorite_Michonne_To_The_Walking_Dead