

After Guillermo Del Toro's announcement of his upcoming monster vs robot epic, the film finally enters principal production. And a new member joins the cast, here's what del Toro had to say: "We start shooting next Monday on 'Pacific Rim'," says del Toro, "which is a gigantic production for Legendary Pictures and Warner Bros. We are wrapping production on a smaller, very powerful horror film called Mama, which I am producing. Chuck and I are working on a series of books that I can't talk too much about. But we started on that about two weeks ago. I'm still working on animation at DreamWorks. I'm keeping myself pretty busy." The director also spoke about the film's cast, confirming that del Toro regular Ron Perlman has signed on. "We are working with actors that I absolutely adore," he continues. "Idris Elba, Charlie Day, Charlie Hunnam, Ron Perlman. It's really, it's a very, very beautiful poem

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/scifi_comic_book_movies/news/?a=49922&t=Ron_Perman_Joins_Guillermo_del_Toro_On_Pacific_Rim_Production_Begins