

Got a pinch of salt handy? Good, because it may come in handy for what you're about to read. A member of the Superhero Hype Forums who claims to know someone close to the production of The Dark Knight Rises has what they believe to be a legitimate description of the prologue which will soon be released in theaters alongside Mission Impossible: Ghost Protocol.

"Rocketman" describes his source in the following way: "Someone I know who is fairly close to production has seen a written description of this prologue...this guy has given me legit stuff all the way back to pre-production and even the Pittsburgh shoot." - Josh Pence / Young Ra's Al Ghul is in this significantly, along with a Young Bane. - We are getting the League of Shadows. (We knew this) - We see a friendship between Little Boy Bane and Little Talia, and believe it or not, this is
