

The people over at Nuke The Fridge was sent what could be the first review of Jon Chu's G.I. Joe Retaliation. The person who is calling them selves "Razar" gave the film a positive review saying it was perfect for the fans that wanted a more serious film compared to the last one. He also said he hopes they make a third film. The review is way to spoilerish to post with out giving away some major plot points. But if you would like to read it, highlight the text below. Remember we have no way to confirm this so make sure to take this with a huge grain of salt. "G.I. Joe: Retaliation" is perfect for fans that wanted a more serious tone than the last outing. The film included lots of ninja action, (although they are far from "silent" about it), which fans of the major story arc between Snake Eyes,
