

Over at the Nolan Fans forums, the creator of the thread below posted a possible scene description a while back of one of the scenes films in India in May for The Dark Knight Rises. While we've heard things about Bane jumping out of the Lazarus Pit, surviving a burning village, etc. in the past, the following goes into much more details. So although this is still classifiable as a rumor until further notice, a strong spoiler warning is being placed, so turn away if you wanna know NOTHING about the film already... the league burns down a town and just as their about to leave they see a child rise up out of a pit covered in flames. They are intrigued because it has something to do with their mythology or prophecies. I guess they see him as a messiah of some sort. The chant is a kind of tribute slash

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=40883&t=RUMOR_More_Info_On_Banes_Origins_In_The_Dark_Knight_Rises_Revealed