

August 25th is around the corner and we've just received some encouraging news about a possible U.S. Release. Studio Swan also released some character promos and posters for the upcoming adaption of the popular anime and manga. Studio Swan has just released character posters for the entire main cast of Rurouni Kenshin. The studio has also released new character promos for Kamiya Kaoru, Sanosuke Sagara, Udou Jine, Takani Megumi and Saitou Hajime. What gets me the most excited is the news that the film has gained an international distributor in the form of the Gaga Corporation ギャガ. Gaga will handle all territories worldwide except Japan and North America. Warner Brothers is planning a major release for the film in Japan from 25 Aug. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that if the film is receiving an international release and it's already being distributed in Japan
