

The recent rumor that Ryan Reynolds had shot a scene as Wade Wilson for James Mangold's Logan was almost immediately debunked by pretty much everyone involved, but shortly after that we did hear that there might be something in the works that would reunite (they first appeared together in X-Men Origins: Wolverine... whether we like it or not) The Wolverine and The Merc with a Mouth on the big screen. Whether that would be Hugh Jackman popping up in Deadpool 2, or a full-on team-up movie is anybody's guess - but whatever may or may not be on the agenda, both actors have commented on the possibility of sharing the screen again a new profile by Variety. Ryan Reynolds: "I would love to play Deadpool for as long as they would let me play Deadpool. We have outlines and stories for a number of different films." He envisions a standalone movie with Deadpool and Wolverine — although that's news to Jackman... Reynolds isn't giving

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/deadpool/ryan-reynolds-and-hugh-jackman-comment-on-that-possible-a147860>