

While promoting his latest comic book adaptation Green Lantern, Ryan Reynolds talked about the project he would love to do. And that's Deadpool, a film that from what we've heard, has an amazing script from writers Rhett Reese and Paul Wernick. "Deadpool is not a villain, he's an asshole," Reynolds clarifies. Reynolds tells a fan he doesn't want to discuss the prospects of a Deadpool feature film, saying there are too many unknowns, but he enjoyed playing the character, would have done some things differently, and if they do a movie, they'll do it the right way — "hard R." I would love to see a film starring Reynolds as "Merc with a Mouth", he is perfect for it. And with that script, it could be nothing but awesome! What are your thoughts on this?
