

In the latest issue of Empire, the mag catches up with Wade Wilson after the massive success of his first solo big screen outing, Deadpool. The Merc with a Mouth explains that he celebrated the film's box office glory by getting the cast of Sesame Street fired, after being paid in cocaine for his efforts. It seems he also counts a very specific DC Comics character among his celebrity fans, and found getting his wife pregnant to be the strangest encounter he's had this year. Plus, it seems he didn't have the best time of it while shooting the video intro for Empire's Deadpool issue a while back, describing it as "inexplicable hell." "Don't ever ask me to do that again or I'll buy your shitty little magazine company and burn it to shapeless ash. Then I'll go home to your wives, husbands and lovers to pick up the pieces of their broken little hearts and love them through this tragedy. Sure,

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/deadpool/ryan-reynolds-channels-the-merc-with-a-mouth-for-deadpools-hysterical-a147075>