

Empire have released more excerpts from their interview with producer Lauren Shuler Donner, and perhaps most the most interesting piece of information to be revealed during their chat was that Donner who is, "mindful of Reynolds' ever-growing logjam of work, added that the film would shoot in the next year or so." A lot further along than any of us realised then! Here are some of the other highlights of that interview. On THE Current Status Of The Deadpool Movie: "We're looking for a director, yes. He's very involved, Ryan. He's working with the writers on the screenplay and it is as much as it is ours." On Keeping The Movie Faithful To The Comic Books: "I'm tellin' ya, it's true to the comic. You'll see all of them. You'll see Wade Wilson, the good-looking Ryan Reynolds! You'll see Deadpool in his costume and you'll see the cancer-scarred face." On What To Expect From The Wolverine: "It

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=33989&t=Ryan_Reynolds_Still_Attached_To_iDeadpooli_Will_Have_Comic_Book_Scars_And_Costume